VOLUME LIII.

IS DAVIDSON TO
BE A CANDIDATE?WILL PRESENT GOVERNOR SEEK
ANOTHER TERM TO SEE CAP-ITAL COMPLETED.

BEING URGED TO MAKE RACE

La Follette Coming Back for Conference With the Radical Republican Candidates.

Madison, Nov. 8.—Despite the fact that Governor Davidson has repeatedly hinted that he may not permit his name to be used as a candidate for the governorship again, it is certain that pressure is being brought to bear upon him from all parts of the state upon him to announce his candidacy, urging him to announce his candidacy, in fact, so insistent are the demands made upon him that there is a strong possibility that he will do so.

Edmond's Attitude.
It is hinted that Republican State Chairman Edmond would not be adverse to becoming a candidate for the office himself. That he is in fact about ready to announce his plans for a campaign with this end in view, Republican leaders throughout the state it is said are afraid that such is the fact and hence their hasty entrance into the field as Davidson supporters in order to block off Edmond's chances if he has any ideas in this direction.

La Follette Coming.
Senator La Follette is also coming back into the state to hold a general conference with his political friends. It is understood that this conference will decide definitely who will be his candidate for the governorship and with the exception of John Strang, all now in the field, it is believed, will abide by this decision. The proposed return of La Follette will hasten the political plans of the other candidates and it is possible that matters will be decided definitely within a day or two after he reaches the state.

Will Look Over the Field.
Senator Thomas Morris of La Crosse still clings to the idea that something can be accomplished by a conference, and within the last week has written to friends here that he is willing to abide by a conference result who have decided that a conference over the subject of a gubernatorial candidate would end in a hopeless failure. He is making a mistake and that he believes some good might result from such a meeting. Mr. Morris, both he and F. E. McGovern, of Milwaukee, were pledged to abide by the result of such a conference and that he thought the other progressive gubernatorial candidates would take the same view of the matter.

McGovern Feels Same Way.
It is known here that Mr. McGovern does take the same view of the situation as Senator Morris, but Mr. McGovern also feels that in justice to the progressive who are thinking of entering the gubernatorial field the conference should be held in the near future so that the men who are candidates can begin early preparations to meet any situation which may arise as a result of the conference. Mr. McGovern is contemplating making a canvass of the state of Wisconsin for a republican gubernatorial nomination should begin very early in the year and he is in a position to make preparations for that fight very soon.

In the Field to Stay.
Gov. Strang declares that he is in the field as an announced candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination and that it is his intention to remain in the field no matter what may be done at a meeting of the La Follette lieutenant who are in conference over the question of the selection of a progressive candidate. Mr. Strang in his statements has openly proclaimed that a violation of the strict spirit of the primary law and he thinks that anybody has a right to contest in the primary for the gubernatorial nomination who desires to enter the race.

In fact, it can be said it is this position of Mr. Strang more than anything else that has convinced the La Follette leaders that the proposed plan for a conference of the progressive lieutenant for a discussion of the question of a single gubernatorial candidate would prove fruitless as far as the elimination of candidates is concerned.

May Talk With Candidates.
Senator La Follette, during his visit in the state, may talk with some of the La Follette gubernatorial candidates and obtain their views on the situation but more than this will not be done in regard to the complex situation. In that case it can be said Senator La Follette would probably not do more than notify the gubernatorial candidates that he would remain neutral in regard to the gubernatorial situation. As far as Capt. Mitchell Lewis of Racine is concerned it can be said that although the Racine candidate, who is now enroute to Europe for a short visit there, is concerned, although saying that he would abide the result of a progressive conference, his friends have begun campaign preparations and that in some ways through their activity his campaign is well under way now.

provement of Rock River Wednesday—Cooper to Speak.

Beloit, Nov. 8.—The program for the meeting of the Six O'Clock club next Wednesday night will be very much like that of the Twilight club at Janesville a while ago and will treat on the improvement of the Rock river for navigation purposes. Congressman Cooper will be among the speakers.

Cal. Pink's automobile collided with a telephone pole Saturday and gave a company of five or six in the machine a jolt that they will not soon forget.

The Beloit Poultry association is getting ready for its first annual poultry show in December. The Beloit Corn club will hold its exhibit and show at the same time. Several farmers and others interested in the development of corn in this vicinity have formed a club and offered prizes for samples of corn. The joint exhibition will be interesting.

Pete Chief Nygren has had several children before him within the past week because they set fire to leaves and fields where there was danger of damage from the fire. There are several children who seem possessed with the determination to start fires. Some little ones got hold of some matches and burned a stable a few days ago. The chief asks parents to keep matches from children while the bonfire period is here.

Charles Rumbolt, aged 27 years, a contracting carpenter, died Sunday of appendicitis.

The college students indicated their joy over winning the game with Knox college Saturday by ringing the college bells and a pow wow on the campus.

A GREAT FIGHT BREWING.

LABOR GATHERING OF IMPORTANCE IS
OPENED IN TORONTODelegates Of American Federation To Wrestle With Problems Of Live
Interests To Organization.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 8.—Upwards of 500 delegates were in their seats this morning when President Samuel Gompers and the annual reports of the American Federation of Labor, occupying places of honor on the platform with the officers and executive council members of J. H. Clegg and A. H. Gill, members of the British parliament, who were present as fraternal delegates from the British Trades Union congress.

Most routine matters were considered at the opening session. The presentation of the credentials was the first matter on the program and occupied considerable time. This was followed by the address of President Gompers and the annual reports of the other officers of the federation.

One of the interesting fights expected to come to a head at the convention is the threatened union of the ranks over the action of the federation in forfeiting the charter of the Cleveland central labor union as the result of the quarrel with the electrical workers' union in that city. The question at issue is the right of the federation to interfere with the matters relating to central bodies of the various cities of the United States.

President Gompers is out for reelection, and it is generally believed that he will be successful. The majority of the other officers are also candidates for reelection, and it seems likely that no changes will result.

MAGNATES OF BUSH
LEAGUE IN MEMPHISSouthern Baseball League Meets Today and Nat'l Association Of Minor League Clubs Tomorrow

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 8.—Minor league baseball managers and patrons will be particularly interested in the gathering of the small league magnates which began here today and which occupies the greater part of this week. Today the Southern league met for its annual fall session. The matters to come before the session for discussion and action include, in addition to the routine business whirling up the past season, the charges brought against William A. Smith, former manager of the Atlanta club and who has been named to manage the Buffalo club of the Eastern league next year. Smith was credited by a Cincinnati newspaper with explaining his dismissal from the Atlanta club by declaring the "the directors fired him for not drawing a fine batch on the pennant race" so that late receipts would improve. It is understood that Smith will make a formal denial of the statements credited to him, in which event the charges against him will probably be allowed to drop.

Following the Southern league meeting tomorrow will come the annual meeting of the National Association of Minor League clubs. With no war talk and baseball in the most prosperous condition in the history of the game, the magnates will have time to discuss the business from all angles and to map out the future of the organization devoted to minor league interests.

FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Old Folks Should be Careful in their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

With advanced age comes inactive bowel movement and sluggish liver. Nature is unable to perform her proper functions and requires assistance. Otherwise, there is constant suffering from constipation and its attendant evils. Old folks should never use medicine that is harsh and irritating.

We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitution, who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorder. We are so certain that it will completely relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer them with our personal guarantee that they shall cost the user nothing if they fail to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rectal Orderlies.

Rectal Orderlies are eaten like candy. They have a soothing, heating, strengthening, tonic and regulative action upon the dry mucous lining and the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel. They produce a natural, successive contraction and relaxation of the muscular fibres of the bowel walls, generating a wave-like motion which forces their contents onward and outward; thus stimulating nature in perfect bowel movement. They tone up and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity. They may be taken at any time without inconvenience; do not cause any griping, nausea, diarrhoea, excessive looseness, flatulence or other disagreeable effect. Try Rectal Orderlies on our guarantee: 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rectal Orderlies in Janesville only at our store, The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

JUDGE EWING ON CHURCH TOPICS

PROMINENT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LEADER SPOKE ON SUNDAY.

DISCUSSED MANY QUESTIONS

Interesting Talk Given by Speaker at the Myers Theatre to Good Sized Audience.

Despite the rainy weather a good sized audience assembled at the Myers theatre Sunday afternoon to listen to Judge William G. Ewing of Chicago, one of the noted leaders of the Christian Science church in the west. M. P. Hutchinson was one of the leading laymen and jurists of Illinois. The speaker resembled Abraham Lincoln in appearance and is a master in the art of public speaking. In part he said as follows:

"Have you ever thought for a moment of the tremendous import of the fact that Jesus never preached but only sermon in all His life, and never repeated that for less than one-fifth part of His active life was given to the letter of the gospel, and all the balance of it to its spirit, to its practical application, to doing, not saying, to healing the withered limbs of men, to breaking the jaws of death, and giving the sons and daughters of men back to life and love and hope. And so in the example of this humble messenger of God do we not find the cheering consolation to yours and mine, viz., that although we may not have the tongue to tell, still, if we but extend a cup of cold water in His name, we will preach the same sweet gospel that the loving Son of God preached, and preach it precisely the same way? Learn, indeed, may we not, from the words of Jesus that you and I were included in His declaration to one who questioned whether he had earned the redemption the Master came to bring, and in the midnight of his doubt cried out to the Savior: 'When saw I thee hungry and gave thee to eat, naked and clothed thee, sick and ministered unto thee?' And by and by the still small voice that speaks to you and to me this afternoon, and has spoken to our fathers through all the ages, made reply: 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.' And this religion of works, of help, of love, is the redemption that Jesus brought to the world, and by the sweetest and holiest ministry humanity has known, impressed upon, left, with the world."

Mrs. Eddy's Teaching.
"And now my word about Mrs. Eddy, the great woman who has with rare devotion to humanity and marvelous spiritual conception restored to the world an abiding sense of the sweetest, love, and healing power inherent to unfaltering reliance upon God. Mrs. Eddy does not seek adulation; she protests against it; her effort is not for self. The sweetest passage in her marvelous teaching impresses the notion of self, glorifies the love of God and the love of men. She does not claim to have discovered the healing power, but simply to have found in God's word the means whereby every weary child of earth may successfully have faith that power. It is her 'Key to the Scriptures' that makes her contribution to humanity absolutely exhaustless and absolutely imperishable—everlasting I say imperishable good is imperishable."

"Great England's great Browning caught a glint of light spiritual when he said: 'There is no lost good. I believe it. Good is an unhidden, indestructible and everywhere present as God. Struggle on then, dear heart, in the sweet assurance that no word of helping kindness, no sweet thought put in action, no tear of pity (Love's pearl), shall ever perish. From your sense for a while it may disappear, mortal mist may cloak it. Lethal waves may touch it, but anon, in some sweeter and better tomorrow, somewhere in the measureless realm of our King, your sweet ministry unmasked, now in beauty fresh, in sweetness, will appear again, blinding the palace of the heart of man. And so let us go to our homes in the sweet and abiding belief that, with that touch of human kindness that makes the whole world kin we may reach out, are reaching out, to the immortality of life."

ESCAPE DEATH IN A BAD COLLISION

Only Three Slightly Injured When Dunk Car Full of Men Rans Short Freight Train.

Three men were injured, none of them seriously, in a collision between the Dunk car and a sand wagon Saturday night about 8:20. The accident occurred just south of the passenger station and the new yards where there is a considerable curve in the track. The Dunk car, containing about thirty employees of the road, was being pushed toward the roundhouse at the rate of about twenty or twenty-five miles an hour by engine 676 in charge of Pilot Frank Griffin and Engineer Charles Yates, when it crashed into the rear end of a short train of steel cars going in the same direction.

So great was the force of impact that the front platform of the Dunk car was completely demolished and the entire upper portion of the car was torn loose from the trucks. Griffin, who was standing on the platform, jumped just in time to save his life, but sustained injuries to his back which will incapacitate him for some time. Conductor Postlewaite of the car and pool, who was standing in the car, was thrown forward on his face and lost five teeth, his head breaking his nose. Switchman Osmond, who was standing in the gondola, was thrown the whole length of the car while his companion, Joe Dempsey, was precipitated to the ground while climbing over the side of the car, but managed to escape the wreckage by clambering up a nearby bank. Several Illinois laborers were piled into a corner mixed indiscriminately with Concord grapes and macaroni. One of the laborers was slightly injured by a flying splinter.

It could not be ascertained how the collision came about, but an investigation is being made by officials. The Dunk car is a complete wreck and will never be in fit shape to use again. It is particularly fortunate that only three were injured, as the car was full of men and the engine was going at a good clip.

NEW BRAKEMAN MET WITH BAD ACCIDENT YESTERDAY

Fell From Top of Box Car at Solon Mills and Fractured His Left Ankle.

Slipping from the wet roof of a box car at Solon Mills yesterday afternoon, brakeman G. Soter of Chicago, fell heavily to the ground and fractured his left ankle. As there was no medical aid to be obtained nearby, Conductor Thomas, who had charge of the train which was a north bound extra, placed the injured man in the caboose and brought him to Janesville where he was immediately taken to the hospital. In spite of the fact that he suffered intense pain throughout the journey, Soter is doing well today and it is not thought that amputation will be necessary although the ankle bones are badly splintered.

HOODOO TROUBLES JANESVILLE AGAIN

High School Football Players Defeated at Waukegan, Saturday, by 17 to 5 Score.

The hoodoo, which has bothered the Janesville high school football team on one or two former occasions, again bothered them Saturday at Waukegan where they played the Waukegan high school team and were defeated 17 to 5. Phibes and intercepted forward passes allowed the victors the winning points. Ward, half back for Waukegan, played the entire game for the winning team. They scored twice on Janesville in the first half and once in the second half. Janesville's only touchdown was made by punting over the Waukegan men and getting the ball before they reached it. The Hoover City squad seemed to be under the spell of Morpheus in the first half, but awakened in the second and held Waukegan down to one goal. Janesville's lineup was as follows: Mac Donald, c; Mott, lg; Palmer, rg; Williamson, lt; Editor, rt; Korst, lb; Sullivan, re; Green, qb; Williams, rb; Brown, rh; Ryan, ls; Tuckwood, McCarthy and Hazen, substitutes.

THE RELIABLE JEWELERS

In Appreciation of Our Grand Opening

We desire to extend our word of thanks to the public for the grand way in which this store was patronized Saturday. It was an event that we made great efforts to make pleasant, but the number of callers were in excess of our anticipation. We regret our inability to serve every caller with a souvenir rose, but we were unable to get a sufficient number from local greenhouses.

To those who were unable to call Saturday and to those who did call and did not get acquainted because of the many people in the store, we extend a hearty invitation to call any day to visit and see what a handsome store we now have and how convenient it is to be served here. Everything is modern, beautiful and sanitary.

THEATRE

Relief From Abused Stage Types.
With the possible exception of the "silly" Englishman, there are probably no types on the stage so often and so thoroughly abused as the gentleman from the South and the long suffering newspaper man.

The one is always made to wear a gray mustache and imperial, a long black frock coat, full dress vest and flowing tie, and whole ensemble topped with a hat of brim and the other is equipped with a suit of loud checks, a red-brown necktie and an omnipresent pencil, which inscribes the smallest detail of a conversation. The Southerner is generally made to talk in a dialect which would not be recognized by a native of any part of the South as being local to his community, but which resembles mostly the uneducated utterances of a cornfield negro; and the newspaper man is clothed with a certain flippancy of manner which would never get past the city desk on a well regulated paper to even start on an assignment, and assuredly would not allow his return with the story because some indignant mortal would assault him when he started his interview.

The writer is both a Southerner and a newspaper man and he has suffered for years as the character of these two types and has been able to find no remedy.

It seems that there are few playwrights from the South. There is Mr. Augustus Thomas, from Missouri, whose characters are always finely drawn, but even in his plays the actors, when they depart from New York and the producer's eye, are likely to lapse into the familiar stage dialect with its utter lack of it and its unparaphrasable substitution of d's for th's. Never has a white man in the South, no matter how ignorant, said "dese" and "dese," when he meant these and those. This is left entirely for the negro to do.

People from the South, when they come north, are often accused of talking like negroes, when there is as much difference as there is between the broken English of any two foreign countries, and the white man's pronunciation is like the negro's only in its extra degree of softness and slurring consonants.

As for the newspaper types, the plays which contain them are generally written by persons who have no knowledge of the newspaper business. It has been said that newspaper men, capable of writing plays are too modest to drag their own profession to the light of the footlights, but lately they are getting away from this idea, and there have been several plays which depict reporters as human beings instead of the parodies of nature which we have been so long accustomed to.

When Channing Pollock dramatized "In the Bishop's Carriage" he put a newspaper man in the last act to clear up a certain situation. This character was called Harry Van Ness and was really a dramatization of Van Ness Harwood, of the Morning World in New York, whom rumor has recently appointed the press agent of the New Theatre. Augustus Thomas in "The Other Girl" gave us a live newspaper man and Jesse Lynch Williams in "The Stolen Story" presented several of them. While reviewers raved over this play, the public found it too technical.

Thomas Buchanan, himself a newspaper man, had the courage to introduce a reporter in "The Woman's Way" which he wrote for Grace George and to keep him introduced. This is said to be a finely drawn characterization and one without offense. There is also a human reporter in the last act of "The Man of the Hour."

It remained however, for Harrison Rhodes, formerly on the Chicago papers, and Thos. A. Wise, an actor of experience, to get together and write a play where both the newspaper man and the Southerner were introduced into the same piece and where neither or offended.

This play is "A Gentleman From Mississippi," one of the substantial hits of the past season, which ran at the Grand opera house in Chicago all summer and will be seen at the Myers theatre Thursday evening, Nov. 11.

Mr. Wise knew the South and the people and he has made his Senator Landrum a man of education, refinement, police and power. He speaks like a gentleman, dresses like a gentleman and does not wear the inevitable mustache and imperial, tho' he has been a Colonel in the Confederate army.

Mr. Rhodes put a real live newspaper man into the play in the part of "Bud" Hines, correspondent for a New York paper, and when he found that the character was to his liking, he put in another one to balance, so that there could be typical newspaper talk between them, and although there are four long acts, neither has occasion to use a note book.

When Messrs. Brady and Griesmer produced the play in Washington last year they induced Mr. Wise to play the Southerner himself and the young newspaper man fell to Mr. Douglas Fairbanks. These were entirely satisfactory and are still playing the piece on Broadway, but so great was the demand for the play that other companies had to be organized. The man who had made the most pronounced hit playing Southern types for the past twenty years was Burr McIntosh. He was found and induced to return to the stage for the Chicago run, though he had been absent for nine seasons and the reporter fell naturally to Mr. Will Denning, as he had played in "The Man of the Hour" during its long run at the Illinois.

Therefore Chicago has been blessed with a play all summer in which there are correct southern and newspaper types and actors who can play them, and the same cast will be seen here.

"A Gentleman From Mississippi" will be presented at the Myers theatre, Thursday, Nov. 11, Adv.

CAPTAIN MILLER OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia.—In Capt. Bill Miller Pennsylvania has one of the natural football players of the country. Miller is good no matter where placed be it quarterback, halfback or end. Last season he got his chance at quarterback, but he was injured, and he was not able to play, especially in the Michigan and Cornell games, that he was awarded a place on many of the All-American teams picked at the close of the season. This year the Penn. coaches are up against it. They must find players to replace many stars, notably the place at left end vacant by Scarlett, so when Thayer showed ability at quarter Miller was placed at end. Then he was worked at half. Miller is a great player, but he cannot do his best work this season, shifted as he has been to date. If Thayer fill at quarter, however, he will probably play Scarlett's end.

To develop successors to Tucker Gaston and Draper and the great backfield composed of Hollenbach, Mauler and Mears is keeping the coaches hustling. Hutchinson at fullback has created a sensation in the practice up to the present time. He is as fast as Hollenbach but of course has not had Bill's experience. Ramsdell, the speedy Texan who holds the sprinting honors, has been played at left halfback with Irwin, a new man, at right half. Cozons, who played center as sub to Marks last season, is being used at tackle. Crooks who was counted upon to succeed Scarlett, will be out for three weeks because of an attack of rheumatism. The Penn regulars lined up as follows in their scrimmage: Bradlock and Cornwall, ls; Cozons, lt; Pettick, lc; Burns and Marks, cs; Lamberton, rs; Elder, rt; Van Housen, Largo, and McClure, rs; Miller, qb; Ramsdell, lb; Irwin and Morris, rs; and Hutchinson, fs.

Sick Man or Woman

Do You Know That 90 Per Cent of Sick People Suffer Needlessly?

IT'S A FACT AND THERE IS A VERY GOOD REASON FOR THE FACT. Here it is: The methods of "dosing" with medicine and "carving up" sick bodies with the surgeon's knife have been used for years in treating disease, and there is more disease today than ever before. That proves them to be failures and you must turn to some other method. The new method is the science of Chiropractic (Ki-ro-prak-tik). It deals with the causes of the ailment.

Get Rid of the Cause;

And your ailment leaves you and you are permanently relieved

Chiropractic Does It

I tell you there is a mighty lot of difference between "Reducing Symptoms" by "soaking" the patient with experimental medicine and REMOVING the CAUSE by the CHIROPRACTIC SCIENCE. IT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FAILURE AND SUCCESS. IF YOU ARE SICK OR AILING YOU OUGHT TO INVESTIGATE IT. PROVE THE TRUTH OR UNTRUTH OF MY STATEMENTS.

I believe I know a way whereby you can be well, no matter how long sick or how many "Doctors" have failed. My method removes the cause of disease from your bodies. Medical treatment is chiefly successful in removing money from your possession to that of the doctor. Don't you think you had better see me and talk this over?

Many of your neighbors KNOW what I ask you to believe. You suffer by choice if you neglect to take advantage of the marvelous efficiency of Chiropractic Science.

ASPHYXIIATED BY FUME FROM THE KITCHEN STOVE

MRS. JAMES SIMPSON AND CHARLES EUNSON HAD LIVES SNUFFED OUT.

ONE NIGHT LAST WEEK

Gruesome Discovery Was Made by Frank Yeomans Early Yesterday Morning.

Mrs. Forbice H. Simpson, widow of the late James Simpson, and her adopted son, Charles W. Eunson, were found dead at the home, 531 Prairie avenue, yesterday morning and the whole house reeked with the fumes of illuminating gas escaping from the burner of a stove in the kitchen. There was every indication that the tragedy had its beginning and end last Wednesday evening as none of the neighbors remembered seeing either of them since that time and copies of the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday daily newspapers had been left untouched upon the porch.

Died with His Hat On

The discovery was made between eight and nine o'clock by Frank Yeomans, a friend of Eunson, who called to see him and received no response to repeated knocks on the door. There was an air of mystery about the place that challenged his attention and he called to see if the place was empty. He found the door open and the place reeked with the fumes of illuminating gas. He found the door open and the place reeked with the fumes of illuminating gas. He found the door open and the place reeked with the fumes of illuminating gas.

Had Attempted to Arise
The good woman whose life had also been snuffed out by this blinding gas, was found lying on her back, her head resting on a chair, and her arms outstretched. She was found in a sitting room. The connecting doors were open and her posture showed that at some moment, when not fully overcome by the poisonous fumes, she had struggled to arise but had fallen back on the cot. Dr. R. W. Edden, who was summoned to the scene, made an examination of the bodies and confirmed the belief that in both instances the gas had been fatal, not for hours but for days. An inquest was not deemed necessary and the remains were removed to Ryan's undertaking rooms.

Troublesome When Drunk

Eunson, though a peaceable citizen under normal conditions and a good carpenter when he worked, was regarded as a troublesome individual when under the influence of strong drink. A few years ago, in an encounter with Robert Hens, then an officer on the police force, he had his skull fractured by a blow across the head and after spending several weeks in the hospital, made an unsuccessful effort to recover damages in the circuit court. He was about 18 years of age, was born at Stevens Point, and was adopted in childhood by Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson, then living on a farm on the Emerald Grove road. A gang of hard-core toughs infested the neighborhood and Eunson is said to have acquired bad habits from them during his early manhood. He came of a good family and had two brothers and three sisters survive him. They were: Robert Eunson of Newellville, sheriff of Clark county, who arrived here today; John Eunson, a grocer at Wausau; Mrs. Eunson of West Virginia; Mrs. Eunson of Washington state, and Mrs. A. Z. Bird of Detroit.

Mrs. Simpson Near Eighty
Mrs. Simpson was nearly eighty years of age and was a quiet, long-suffering woman who patiently bore an unhappy lot in her declining days. Her husband passed away about ten years ago. A sister of Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. John Underwood, lives at Laneville, N. D., and there are said to be three brothers living in Iowa. She owned the house and lot where she lived and is said to have possessed other property valued at $8,000. A double funeral will be held tomorrow morning, the bodies leaving Ryan's undertaking rooms at 10, with services at Oak Hill chapel at 10:30.

HARVEY M. HATHORN IS BETTER TODAY

And Will Suffer No Lasting Ill Effects from Impact of Officer Mason's Club on His Head.

Harvey M. Hathorn, a metal-worker in the employ of Frank Douglas and known as a quiet, peaceable citizen, came in contact with Officer Mason's bludge at the corner of Milwaukee and Main streets shortly after eleven o'clock Saturday evening and sustained scalp injuries which created a gory spectacle and will keep him at home for several days. Dr. Mann dressed the wounds at the police station and according to a report from his home, 703 Prairie avenue, said he is feeling much better and a rapid recovery from his unpleasant experience is anticipated.

It appears that Mr. Hathorn came out of a neighboring saloon at 11 o'clock and started up street with a bicycle and some bundles. Several street loungers "guyed" him, offering to assist him up hill, and so forth, and he engaged in a more or less noisy conversation with them. Officer Mason saw a street disturbance and tried to process of arrest and tried to up it in the end by ordering Hathorn to go home. Hathorn did not take kindly to the order and wanted to argue about it. Versalons of what occurred just before the blows were delivered. Some say that Hathorn was guilty of resisting and striking at an officer. Others claim that he received unmerciful treatment for daring to "talk back" a little. The crowd that gathered around the officer and injured man was in an ugly mood and in the little circle close to the pair were a number of loud talkers who shook their fists in the officer's face and threatened him with bodily violence. The patrol wagon came presently and took both Hathorn and a youth named Sathers to police headquarters.

Whether or not any charges will be preferred against Officer Mason and filed with the police commission remains to be seen. Chief of Police Appley was in Milwaukee today on business connected with the arrest of A. E. Grauman on Saturday on the charge of dealing in bogus cranberry butter and it could not be learned what his attitude in the matter would be.

DOPE DOCTOR IS TAKEN TO TASK

MONTEREY TAX-PAYER OBJECTS TO ARGUMENTS OF FORMER WRITER.

SHOWS ARGUMENTS FALSE

Upholds Idea of the Rule by Commission and Urges Its Adoption.

Today the Gazette publishes an article in answer to that of the "Dope Doctor" who opposed rule by commission and ridiculed the idea. Its writer was as follows:

Mr. Editor: I read the article signed "Dope Doctor" in the Saturday's issue of your valuable paper with a great deal of amusement.

I wonder what battle he refers to when he says, "Shake well before using." Is it the one out of which he pours the dope upon which he feeds his own pessimistic mind and does he wish the people of this city to take the same poisonous drug, so that they will become as pessimistic and narrow as the views expressed in that article.

He says, "Stop and consider before you sign that petition." What? What harm can come from signing that petition? It only asks that the people be given an opportunity to investigate and select a new city government if they wish. And the sentiments expressed in that article pre-empted four hundred years ago the idea that possessed it would have assisted in the standing of the chieftain Columbus as a puritan bigot who would have assisted in the firing of the fagots at Salem, Bell, Morse, Edison, McCormick, Wright, Fulton, Whitney, and Marconi would all have died unknown and if the minds of all men were cast in the same narrow measures there would be no trans-continental railway, no eighteen hour train from Chicago to New York; no tunnels beneath the Hudson or Chicago rivers, and no drainage canal, and the tens of thousands of acres of arid lands in the west would still be a howling desert. Education is wasted upon it. The possession of those ideas is not only fruitless but one degree worse than sterile. The space they occupy upon the face of the earth is wasted.

Opportunity is wasted every time they are given a chance; without them the great Civil war would be unknown—no Richmond, Antietam, Bull Run or Gettysburg with their countless dead. Afraid to trust the "people," the source of all governmental power.

ideal man for any purpose as is any section of the city, as the history of our city will prove.

I wonder if the "Dope Doctor" knows that some of the men who are placing the name of the city of Janesville on the map are the boys from Monterey. It is a person with a mind of this calibre that is afraid to investigate any new thought or idea for it might prove successful and improve economical and social conditions of the people.

I, from Monterey, say, let's investigate this new government of cities by commission and have all the light thrown upon this and our old form of municipal government that it is possible to obtain, and you can trust the "people" to adopt it and elect competent men as commissioners if this new government is an improvement upon our present one. So I say, Mr. Editor, continue your good work and give us all the information you can on this subject for the people of this city appreciate your efforts.

ALCOHOL MENACE; INJURY TO MORALS

DELEGATES TO INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON ALCOHOLISM MAKE THEIR REPORT.

IS AN ENEMY TO MORALITY

Liquor is Not Only Unnecessary to Human Life and Comfort But is Injurious to Both—Rigorous Restrictions Urged.

Washington, Nov. 8.—According to the report of the United States delegates who attended the twelfth international congress on alcoholism, which has just been made public by the state department, alcohol and alcoholism are two of the greatest and substantial enemies of the moral, artistic and commercial progress of the human race.

Knox Appoints Delegates.
The delegates were appointed by Secretary Knox as one of his first official acts. The congress was held last July in London and 25 governments were represented, the delegates of each country in the general finding that alcohol not only was unnecessary to human life and comfort, but was inimical to both.

Great Interest is Shown.
According to the report the interest shown in the congress was greater than ever was known before. Because of the information evolved at the congress the delegates accepted the invitation of the queen of Holland to hold their next meeting, two years hence, at The Hague, in conjunction with the conference of the committee that is working for international peace.

While the congress urged the necessity of imposing the most rigorous restrictions on the sale and traffic in alcoholic liquors, it regarded as equally important the need of educating the younger generation to a true knowledge of what alcohol is and what its effects upon the human system are. The delegates believe that the numerous recent discoveries as to the harmfulness of drunkenness, and even "moderate" drinking also, should be set before children in order that they may see the danger of the practice.

4, PERHAPS 6, LIVES ARE LOST

Auto Plunges Through Open Draw Into Chicago River.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Four persons, perhaps six, including at least one woman, lost their lives in the Chicago river last night when an automobile in which they were riding, plunged through an open draw of the Jackson boulevard bridge and sank. One of the men passengers, in a desperate effort to save himself and a woman companion, swam a block down the river with the woman clinging with her arms around his neck.

Persons who saw the heavy touring car fall into the water believe it held six passengers, including several women. The high speed at which the car was running and the failure of the chauffeur to regard the danger signals are responsible for the catastrophe. The watchman on the bridge and occupants of two automobiles at the spot where the touring car went over the abutment agree that the red danger signals were displayed and that the warning gong was ringing.

Policemen and firemen on the fireboat Illinois searched in vain following the accident to recover the bodies of the victims.

When the accident happened it was raining heavily and the asphalt of the boulevard was slippery. The fatal car drove down Jackson boulevard from the east at a speed of 30 miles an hour. The draw had opened to allow the passage of two steamships.

ROOSEVELT IS IN GOOD HEALTH

There is No Foundation for Rumor That He Was Killed.

Nairobi, British East Africa, Nov. 8.—Col. Roosevelt and all the members of his party are in good health. There is no ground whatever for the rumor that the ex-president has been killed. The colonel is beating the bush in the Eldama ravine in search of a bongo, a rare specimen of antelope which no white man over has bagged.

While it was known for a practical certainty that there were no grounds for the report of an accident, the fact that the colonel was absent from his camp made it impossible to issue an unqualified denial until communication with the party was established.

Preacher Confesses Bigamy

Marion, Ind., Nov. 8.—Rev. Harlan White, 56 years old, who is alleged to have deserted his third wife at Newaygo, Mich., two weeks ago and gone on a visit to his second wife at Osgood, Ind., was arrested here and in court confessed bigamy. White admitted using his third wife's money to visit his second wife, say the police.

Library Banned Puck and Judge

Bloux City, Ia., Nov. 8.—Puck and Judge have been put under the ban by the Bloux City public library. Deciding that many of the colored funny pictures in these publications have a degrading influence upon the minds of children, the trustees of the library voted to discontinue them.

To Scan Cook Data Alone.

Copenhagen, Nov. 8.—The consistory of the University of Copenhagen declined to accept the proposal of the National Geographic society that a committee representing the American body be present when the north polar records of Dr. Cook are first examined.

ELIMINATE NEGRO FROM POLITICS

SENATOR CULLOM ADVOCATES DISFRANCHISEMENT OF SOUTHERN BLACK MAN.

WHITES MUST BE SUPREME

Declares That Colored Men of the Northern States Use the Ballot with Wisdom and Fairness Which Makes Them Satisfactory.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The elimination of the negro from politics in the sections of the union where there is danger of negro supremacy in political affairs and the white domination of the same is favored by Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, who has an unbroken record of 25 years in the senate as a Republican representing a Republican state, a friend of Abraham Lincoln and a Lincoln Republican for nearly sixty years. In an interview Sunday Senator Cullom said:

"Eliminate the negro from politics in the south—give that section of the country an exclusively white ballot or a franchise which shall mean absolute and unequivocal white supremacy in the management of its whole affairs and there's not a state below the Mason and Dixon line which will not be found in the Republican column of the electoral college."

To Break the Solid South.
Senator Cullom's discussion of the subject was in response to President Taft's tour of the southern states, which is generally viewed by politicians of both the big parties as a bid for the vote of at least one of the southern states in favor of the next Republican presidential candidate.

The Illinois senator is the first Republican of national influence who has come out into the open to declare for this doctrine.

"The whole truth of the situation," continued Senator Cullom, "is that the south believes in and really needs the enforcement of the Republican doctrine of a protective tariff. Therefore, the people of that section would like to vote in behalf of candidates—congressional, national and state—who would support such a policy. But they are held in leash, so to speak, by the fear of negro domination; the fear of colored men in office, both of the elective class and those appointed at Washington."

Afraid of Race Issue.

"They are afraid of the race issue; there can be no doubt of that. They are constantly in a state of excitement over the prospect of a colored vote of superior numbers, and naturally they cling together against the black man as a matter of protection, not of their industrial interests, but of their personal affairs."

"I do not necessarily mean that I favor the total disfranchisement of the negro. In Illinois, for instance, we have a large negro vote just as in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. But up in those communities it is a different proposition. There appears to be a distinction somewhere between the two sections in this respect, and the northern colored man uses his ballot with wisdom and fairness. We are satisfied with him, but it is notorious, of course, that the south is not."

Taft is Wise.

"President Taft is showing wisdom in his southern tour. He is a big, good natured, whole souled, patriotic and generous statesman, to whom the south or any other section may well and implicitly trust its absolute destiny. Mr. Taft is just now mingling with the southern people in order that he may get better acquainted with them and they with him. They will find that he is the right man for his place."

"Of course, the president doesn't intend to surrender any principle, but at the same time he is willing to make concessions to the southern people commensurate with any fair sense of justice. And likewise does he intend to eradicate the Mason and Dixon line. In my opinion, he is just the man for that task and if he does not accomplish it, to a certain degree, at least, I shall be sadly mistaken."

Illinois Valley Storm-Swept.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 8.—The Illinois river valley was swept last night by the severest electrical storm on record at the local weather bureau. Lightning created havoc throughout Peoria, and for a time all communication was cut when the lines of both telegraph and telephone companies were lost. Electric lights in many sections of the city are out, through the loss of power. Several houses were struck and burned. Meager reports from surrounding towns show considerable damage by the wind and lightning.

Rebels Appeal to Taft.

Panama, Nov. 8.—Prominent members of the Nicaraguan colony here sent a cable message to President Taft, asking him "in the name of humanity and civilization" to pay no attention to requests of Zelaya, either for aid or for non-interference, and asking that if the United States cannot intervene in Central America, it should at least let the fate of Nicaragua be decided on the battle fields.

Two Killed, Three Injured.

Hornell, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Engineer Chauncey Green and Fireman Christopher Ryder were killed, F. O. Tracy, a brakeman, was probably fatally hurt, and two other employees were slightly injured in a freight wreck on the Erie railroad near Belmont.

Said Uncle Silas:

CUMMINS SPEAKS AT CLUB BANQUET

SENATOR FROM IOWA DEFENDS THE INSURGENTS IN CONGRESS.

HOT SPEECH IN CHICAGO

Upholds the Cause of Congressmen Who Are Fighting for Real Revision of the Tariff—Pays Respects to Speaker Cannon.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—In a speech at a banquet of the Marquette club United States Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa made answer to Speaker Cannon's attacks on him and other "insurgents" and defended in a most vigorous manner those senators who refused to vote for the Aldrich tariff bill.

Senator Cummins said, in part: Mr. Toastmaster and Gentlemen: In view of some things that have happened since I accepted your invitation, you will not look upon it as either strange or inappropriate, I am sure, if I am a little more personal than is my habit. This is a Republican club, and it has borne a high and honorable part in giving expression to our faith and in giving strength to our organization. It is therefore peculiarly well fitted to consider an interesting controversy that has recently arisen within the party ranks. For that reason, and because I am deeply anxious to preserve the party strength, I have chosen this occasion to speak of the dispute in hope that a better understanding may follow a fair and candid discussion of our differences of opinion.

Attacked by Illinoisan.
A month ago a distinguished son of Illinois came to Iowa, obviously angry and therefore, in one of his hysterical moods. He made a speech ostensibly in defense of the rules of the house of representatives, but which was in fact, an assault upon those who had opposed the Republican tariff measure. Not content with burning us at the stake, he scattered our ashes to the four winds in order to make sure that we would be lost to the Republican party forever and ever. It excited me to a pre-eminence among those insurgents which I do not deserve, but which I would be proud to occupy, and declared, with a vehemence which you who know him will appreciate, that I had become an ally of a certain elegant gentleman whose quadrennial business has been to carry the Democratic banner to overwhelming defeat. Warmth to his work, he made another speech a few days ago at Elgin, in which he repeated in all the colors of his rainbow phraseology the denunciation of those who committed the heinous crime of voting against the tariff bill, and again consigned them to the lowest depths of Democratic perdition; and then to completely satisfy his lust for blood, he assigned to Senator La Follette and myself a superheated chamber in this region of the damned. With all these imprecations, expulsions and exterminations still ringing in my ears, I feel like a member of the famed brigade of which the poet sang:

Cannon to the right of them
Cannon to the left of them
Cannon and thundered.

Cannon's Charge Futile.

It will not avail Mr. Cannon and his associates anything to declare that we have joined hands with the Democratic party, for every intelligent man knows that this is simply an appeal to a blind passion and a senseless prejudice. The insurgents believe that the Republican party is the best instrumentality to secure and maintain good government. They are proud of its history; they love its traditions; and I venture the prediction that in the campaign of next year their voices will be heard high above all others defending its doctrines and sustaining its candidates. Their struggle will be within the lines, but they will not hide the truth as they see it; for they know that if the Republican party is to be permanently successful, it must be faithful to its platform, and must meet courageously and justly the new age of commerce and business with its new problems and questions. It cannot any longer be progressive in its platform and stand-pat in its congress.

A few months ago I said that I was willing to accept an arbitrator as to the Republicanism of those who voted against the tariff bill, and I hasten to name the judge. I appeal to the national Republican platform of 1908; and tested by the criterion of that instrument the Republican voters of the United States will determine just as rapidly as they have the opportunity to do so, whether our votes were in accordance with its declarations and pledges.

Proposition is Absurd.

I understand perfectly that it would have been helpful to party harmony if we could have voted together; but that is not the question. The platform was for protection. All the Republicans in congress were for protection; but the view of these high priests appears to be that if they thought that upon any given article protection required 50 per cent., and we thought the article would be amply protected with 25 per cent., unless we voted for 50 we were no longer Republicans. The whole proposition is so absurd that even the most rabid member of the triumvirate will not repeat it often.

STANLEY KETCHEL'S MANAGER WHO DIED VERY SUDDENLY. WILLIS BRITT

San Francisco.—Willis Britt, manager of Stanley Ketchel, whose sudden death here resulted from a hemorrhage of the lungs was one of the best known fight managers of the country. Britt had founded all his hopes on a desire to get a man to beat Jack Johnson. He believed when he landed Ketchel that he had the man. All his hopes were founded on the battle for the heavyweight championship and the result was a crushing blow to Britt.

Britt was only 32 years old, but two years ago he drank so heavily that he was hospitalized and early this year in New York he narrowly escaped death as a result of alcoholic excess.

Britt was a clever boxer when younger, but more recently he turned his attention to promoting prize fights. He was a good father, shrewd and one of the best ring-side coaches in the country.

Britt began as a newspaper writer on a local afternoon paper but when Jimmy Britt leaped into prominence as a pugilist he became his brother's manager and it was largely through his advice that Nelson beat Gans.

Britt coached Ketchel well, but he made a ghastly mistake when he matched Stanley with Johnson and it was the realization of this error that drove him to his last fatal drinking spell.

With Britt dead Ketchel must get a new manager. When Tom Jones manager of Ad Wolgast, was here he slipped out the door on the side that he had been approached by Ketchel in regard to taking the management while the fighter was in the east. Jones refused to consider the proposition while Britt was in charge. "If you ever leave Britt let me know and I will consider it," was Jones' answer to the request. Joe O'Connor is still highly thought of by Ketchel and may be asked to come back and handle his protégé whom he brought into the front ranks of pugilism.

NEW PRESIDENT OF DRY FARMING CONGRESS. Congressman Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming.

Billings, Mont. The dry farming congress just closing has been anything but a dry convention. Problems of the greatest national importance have been discussed and effective work for the western farmer has been inaugurated which cannot but bring about lasting results.

In the selection of Frank Wheeler born in St. Louis Mo. Before he was six years of age his parents died, leaving him an orphan to be reared by friends. As a lonely boy of six Frank Mondell journeyed to Iowa to live with these friends on a farm where he remained until he was eighteen years old. He attended the local district school and received higher education from a private tutor.

As a young man Mr. Mondell engaged in mercantile pursuits stock raising, mining and railroad construction. Finally settling in Wyoming in 1887, where he engaged in the development of coal mines and oil properties at and in the vicinity of New Castle and Cambria. Here the following year he entered politics as mayor of New Castle, where he served until 1895. He was a delegate to the Republican national convention in Minneapolis in 1892 and was appointed assistant commissioner of the general land office in the late nineties. He entered the fifty-fourth congress and has since with the exception of but two terms, served continuously, representing the state of Wyoming in the lower house of congress.

Greatest Woman in All History.

"Who may rightly be said to be the greatest woman in history? The answer that was awarded the prize was this: 'The wife of a man of moderate means, who does her own cooking, washing and ironing, brings up a family of girls and boys to be useful members of society, and finds time for her own intellectual improvement in the greatest woman in all history.'—Boston Traveler.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

A GREAT many women whom I know who are extremely economical in most respects have a peculiar habit of throwing away two-dollar—and even larger bills—on certain occasions.

"Yes, he told me not to eat any potatoes or starchy things, but that's nonsense. Why, I've always heard that potatoes were the most nourishing thing you could possibly eat. Of course, I shan't give them up."

That's what I overheard in the car yesterday.

If a woman paid two or three dollars for a waist or a piece of cloth or any material thing she wouldn't be very apt to go out and throw it in the dump the next day, would she?

And yet again and again I've seen women who paid two or three dollars for a doctor's advice treat it in a way that was equivalent to throwing it in the dump.

The above quotation is one small example. I've heard and seen some thousands of variations of that at different times among my feminine acquaintances.

They seem to take a peculiar pride and delight in these announcements; to regard them, for some strange reason, as declarations of independence—a foolish independence, since it is from an authority they themselves have sought.

"My doctor tells me to be outdoors at least two or three hours every day," says one woman, "but that shows just how much he knows about what there is to do in a house. I guess he'd have taken two or three hours to be outdoors yesterday if he had six white skirts to iron for Elsie and a waist to be finished for the whist party, besides all the regular work."

And her confidante promptly sympathizes with her in her rebellion against that arbitrary doctor, instead of pointing out that the doctor did not give the prescription to amuse himself, but because he knew those two or three hours might stand between his patient and breakdown or death.

"Oh, I always take what my doctor says with a large grain of salt," is a favorite expression of another neighbor of mine.

The "large grain of salt" means, of course, that she employs her own superior wisdom in selecting what parts of his advice she thinks best to follow.

The funny part of it all is the absurd way these women ignore the fact that while they are biting off the doctor's nose they are spilling their own faces.

And the sad part of it is that they do split their faces—in other words, don't get well.

Just by way of contrast I'm going to tell you a little story of a woman who, under the most trying circumstances, had the courage to follow the doctor's advice absolutely.

She was telling me about it the other day.

"When my baby was 11 months old," she said, "she had pneumonia. The fever kept getting worse and worse and we tried all the ordinary means and failed.

"One day when the doctor came her temperature was between 101 and 105, and she hadn't slept any for two or three days.

"He looked at her and said, 'Now, I am going to tell you a way to save that baby's life. If you do just what I say I think you can save her. If you don't, she'll probably be dead by tomorrow.'

"And then he told me to put the baby in a tub of very cold water up to her neck and let her stay there for five minutes and then put her in a dry blanket, not rub her at all, but simply lay her in it. He said that that would take the fever down and if it came up to do it again.

"Now, if any old women come in here they'll tell you not to do it," he said, "but if you care anything about saving your baby you won't mind what they say."

"It was before the days of the cold treatment for pneumonia and no one had ever heard of such a thing and everyone said it would kill the child. But I did it.

"And the minute I got her dry she fell into a perfectly natural sleep and slept all night. In a few days she was out of danger."

The aerial transmission system will be supported by a 600-foot steel tower. This plant is guaranteed to be operative under all atmospheric conditions and to be proof against all interference from all present radiotelegraphic apparatus in use anywhere. It is reported that the navy operators successfully tried for four days to interfere with the operation of a preliminary arrangement of the type of apparatus to be used. The cost of the plant is stated as $182,000.

hands in water or necessitates frequent washing, that it is easy to understand how a busy woman will soon have chapped and constricted hands when the weather turns cool. Hurried washings to answer the phone, or the door, with half dry hands, or indeed to answer the thousand one calls that a home-maker regards as part of the regular routine, this is at the bottom of the trouble. Since the work must be done, and the calls responded to, it is wise to have at hand a deep jar with a quart of oatmeal in its depths, and after the hurried drying on the towel a quick wash in the oatmeal will safeguard the tenderest hands. A common stone jar of the grey ware used in the kitchen will do and it should be at least 12 inches deep. The reason for this will be apparent if a trial is made of a shallow jar and the oatmeal spreads over the top of the jar in a thin cloud. Cold gloves are useful to wear when doing rough work and some women wear rubber gloves when washing dishes, while others find them awkward and an impediment to rapid work. If mild soap is used while washing dishes and the oatmeal bath is used after the hands are washed the gloves will be unnecessary. Once a week a thorough soaking in warmed olive oil will help to ward off the look of age that so often tells tales that the face would not betray. A visit to the manicure is a wise measure, but the ordinary woman with a little care and time can do very well alone for the most part.

The Optimist's Corner
Daily Helps to Health and Happiness
By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A.M., M.D.

It is better to go to sleep on the right side, for then the stomach is very much in the position of a bottle turned upside down, and the contents aided in passing out by gravitation. If one goes to sleep on the left side the operation of emptying the stomach of its contents is more like drawing water from a well. After going to sleep let the body take its own position. If you sleep on your back, especially soon after a heavy meal, the weight of the digestive organs and that of the food, resting on the great vein of the body, near the backbone, compresses it and arrests the flow of blood more or less. If the arrest is partial, the sleep is disturbed and there are unpleasant dreams. If the meal has been recent or hearty, the arrest is more decided and the various sensations such as falling over a precipice, or the pursuit of a wild beast, or other impending danger, and the desperate effort to get rid of it, arouses you; that sends on the stagnated blood and we awake in a fright, or trembling, or there is sweating or feelings of exhaustion according to the degree of stagnation and the length or strength of the effort made to escape the danger. Eating a large or "hearty" meal just before going to bed should always be avoided.

It's a mistake to pay $20 for an advertising space and fill it with a 50 cent ad. Anything worth doing is worth doing well. Advertising is an investment, not an expense, if it is properly handled.

Afternoon Gown
A pretty development of the Mayan Age gown is this. This frock is plain back and front and closes at the left side by means of buttons and button-holes. The sleeve, cut in one with the side body, is three-quarter length, terminating above a cuff or heavy lace—the latter is used also for the plastron. Bands of silk and gilt passementerie are most effectively used across the bust and around the bottom of the bodice portion, where it meets at the right side under a large buckle from which fall long tabs of the same, finished with silk fringe.

Paraguay Tea.

The yerba mate, or Paraguay tea, has an immense consumption in the lower parts of South America, almost to the exclusion of tea and coffee. It grows wild and plentiful, is cheap as dirt and has a good per cent. of tholine, the active principle of tea and coffee, but less than either. It has a genuine high therapeutic, soothing, stimulating effect upon the stomach and the whole system. The people over a large part of South America have the very strongest belief in its curative and consoling effects.

Not Only Indigestion and Gas But All Stomach Distress Goes

Take a Little Diapospin Now and Your Stomach Will Feel Fine
Five Minutes Later.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating and you believe it is the food which fills you, if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, burp or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sour your entire system—interfere with digestion and cause so many sufferers of Diapospin, Bile, Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, thought you may call it by some other name, your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapospin will cost fifty cents at any pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drugstore the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapospin will regulate any out of order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort all of any kind of food you eat.

ALDRICH PLEDGES NATION BEST MONEY SYSTEM

Monetary Commission Has no Prepared Plan But Are Studying One Out.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—At a banquet at the Chicago Commercial club Nelson W. Aldrich, United States senator from Rhode Island and chairman of the national monetary commission, in an address declared that a comprehensive, scientific plan for changing of the American monetary system, both as to note issues and the organization of credit, will result from the commission's labors.

Senator Aldrich declared that the commission thus far had prepared no specific plan. The preparation of a plan in the concrete, he pointed out, could come only after a detailed study of the world's banking systems and after minute consideration of the financial needs of this country. That study is now being given.

The whole trend of his address showed that he is a believer in the central bank idea, though he did not say so in set terms. But he dwelt upon the fact that in other countries it has been generally determined that note issues should always be under government control and that this can only be had through a central bank. He also pointed out the widespread dissatisfaction with the existing American system of note issues.

The problem of note issues, however, Senator Aldrich pronounced to be of decidedly secondary importance in comparison with the efficient organization of the credit and banking system. He pointed out that it was the duty of the commission to devise the best and wisest financial system the world has ever had and that in so devising it was necessary to plan a credit system whereby financial panics could be controlled, if not completely avoided, and where disasters due to periods of overpopulation could be confined to the "transgressors."

ATTACKS RIVAL; IS KILLED.

Peoria Man Is Shot in Quarrel Over Girl.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 8.—Insane with jealousy when he found Della Sanda, a young woman friend, in a room with John Reising, John Hudson, an ex-city employee, attacked his rival and in the melee received two bullet wounds in the stomach and died. Reising was captured later and made a complete confession of the crime.

The dead man was two years ago tried for killing Charles Ogden with a blow of his fist, but was acquitted. Hudson has been married two months and his wife was a witness to the tragedy.

Implicates Woman in Murder.

Peoria, Kan., Nov. 8.—Following a confession that he murdered Mrs. Mary Short, a Topeka woman, in the hope of gaining possession of her property, Fred Fanning implicated Mrs. Minnie English in the crime, and she was arrested as an accomplice. Fanning in his original confession said that he put poison in Mrs. Short's coffee. He now declares that Mrs. English had threatened to kill him if he did not kill Mrs. Short.

Receiver for Bank Denied.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 8.—Federal Judge Cottrell denied the application for a receiver for the Columbia Bank and Trust Company to displace State Bank Commissioner Young, who was charged with favoritism in paying depositors. The petition was filed by George Anderson of Roseville, Ill., who claimed to have $8,000 on deposit in the failed bank. The bank closed its doors in September, owing depositors close to a million dollars.

To Postpone Postal Banks.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has decided to postpone the recommendation for the postal savings bank until the first session of the Sixty-second congress, as the financial laws will then have been so revised that it will be possible to incorporate the postal savings bank as an integral part of the national financial system.

New Rich Heir Missing.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 8.—With a notification of his succession to an estate valued at about $10,000,000 awaiting him here, Edward A. Trevillyan, 50 years old, is missing. The estate is that of an uncle who died in London August 10. At the small hotel in North Cambridge, where Trevillyan had been employed, foul play is feared.

Accuse Son of Killing Father.

Muscatine, Ia., Nov. 8.—Frank Degler was charged with the murder of his father, John Degler, by the coroner's warrant. The autopsy developed the fact that the man was shot twice in the head, and the evidence is said to have been unfavorable to the son.

Ex-Speaker of Commons Dies.

London, Nov. 8.—Lt. Hon. William Court Gully, the first Viscount Selby, is dead after a long illness. He was born in 1835. The viscount was speaker of the house of commons from 1895 to 1905. His grandfather was in his youth a well-known pugilist.

$500,000 Fire in Rail Shops.

Newbern, N. C., Nov. 8.—Fire destroyed the shops of the Norfolk and Southern Railroad Company here, resulting in a $500,000 property loss. Several locomotives and cars were destroyed.

Peasants and Old Maids find their peace in thinking of what might have been—conclusive evidence that neither will ever startle the advertising world.

JOHN W. HARDING

He rose with mock dignity.

"You're on my ship, Mrs. Brooks. Please remember every captain is master of his ship, and if you don't listen and like it—mind you, I say like it—I'll slap you in double from the main."

"Captain Williams," she pleaded, "I am sure that you would not do please."

"This little fore and after, Mrs. Brooks," he broke in, picking up the model of the ship on the mantel, "is a model of the ship on my first command out of Peoria. That's her wheel up there over the door. She laid the cornerstone of my fortune, but she taught me how to fight and have nerve. Took her up into the north Pacific moult and then down on the Japanese coast. Had a crew who wouldn't adorn any high back over Captain Kidd ever could wish for. If there was any good in that schooner God must have saw it first and hit it."

To humor him she had advanced to the mantel.

"And is that where you got your awful reputation?" she inquired.

The husky eyebrows came down until the lids were hidden, and his eyes, shining like live coals, were alone visible as he directed his gaze upon her.

"Just how bad is that 'awful reputation,' Mrs. Brooks?"

"They say," she returned, meeting his gaze steadily, "that you have no heart, no pity, in you; that you'd kill a man in those days with a little feeling as I would kill a mosquito."

"Well, I guess the reason you'd kill a mosquito isn't because it's just a mosquito and that you'd like to kill it, but because you're afraid it will bite you. Ain't it?"

"Yes."

"I had men, Mrs. Brooks, who, if you let 'em go too far, they'd bite, and if you let 'em bite too deep they'd kill. Them were the early days of seniors. It was a hard life, and it made hard men. I ain't any better, but I guess I ain't no worse, than lots of others would be fixed just as I was at that time."

"I'm glad to hear you say that, captain," she declared, seizing the opportunity. "It opens the way for the business I came on."

"Business?"

"That it's after business hours, Mrs. Brooks, and I ain't half span my yarn. Now, over here I want to show you a couple of spears I got from a lot of hard hunters down in the Malay archipelago. You may not know where that is, but I've always had an idea it's where God battered down the devil after that first big row they had you read about in the Bible. I was going ashore, seeing what was doing, when this crew of biggers come down on us like a squal. We had an awful time getting back to the boats, I tell you. We were some cut up, and all I got out of the expedition was one of the big chief's wives."

He looked into Mrs. Brooks' eyes.

"Took her back to Peoria with me," he added. "Women were scarce in those times—good looking ones."

"You took her away from where she belonged?" questioned Emma slowly and incredulously.

"She was willing to go. No one ever beat her about the ship, and she lived pretty much as she wanted—three meals a day and no hard work."

"What became of her?"

"Died—I guess from overeating. You see them two little anchors that chair's made of?"

But she had recoiled from him, shuddering with horror and aversion.

"She died from overeating?" she interrogated. "Have there been many of those?"

"No, I learned a lesson. I put the rest on a diet."

He seemed to think that this was particularly clever and humorous, for he burst into a loud guffaw.

Emma did not laugh. She was more disgusted and apprehensive than ever.

"The clock struck 11."

"Did you hear that?" she said. "I must insist that you let me talk over what I came here for."

"Eleven! It ain't late," he replied coaxingly. "Would you like a little something to drink? It's hot tonight."

"No, I thank you."

"You can have it just as well as not."

"I don't care for it."

"All right, only I thought I might get it for you. You see, when I heard you were coming here I sent my Jap away."

"Why?"

"What he don't know won't hurt him."

"Is there anything, captain, you're afraid he'll find out?" she demanded frigidly.

"Sit down—there, opposite me. I was only thinking of you."

"You have stolen some money from you."

"Too bad! Too bad!"

"How much is it?"

"What do you want to know for?"

"I am his wife. It is my business to know."

"There you go, talking business again!" he protested, trying to be gallant and throwing an ogling glance at her. "I so seldom have the pleasure of your company, Mrs. Brooks, that this 'business' thing knocks all the romance out of your visit."

"I didn't intend there should be any romance in it, Captain Williams," she retorted stiffly.

"Mrs. Brooks," he went on, ignoring the snub, "a sailorman always finds romance in an evening spent with a pretty woman. I can remember well when the Sally Moran put into Nagasaki for water and fresh provisions a little Japanese girl called on me, and I had a terrible time. I wanted to make things right nice and pleasant for her, but, Lord, she couldn't talk a word of English. There she sat all the evening, grinning and making signs, while I was talking my head off trying to tell her how much I loved her. All my pretty speeches were lost."

He laughed aloud as the scene rose before his mind's eye.

"Now," he continued meaningly, with an intonation intended to be tender, "when I have a girl like you, who can understand—"

"I beg your pardon, captain," she said, very coldly and sternly. "I must tell you that I did not come here to make a social call, I never came to make like this, at a time like this, to talk to a man like you before in my life."

CHAPTER XV.

CAPTAIN WILLIAMS' lower jaw advanced, and his plish eyes contracted. He throw off his too amiable demeanor. His voice became harsh and cruel as his natural brutality asserted itself.

"A man like me, eh?" he rasped.

"That's pretty hard language, Mrs. Brooks."

"Please forgive me and let us talk."

"If you didn't come here to see me sort of socially, what did you come for?"

"About Joe—my husband."

"What about him?"

"I asked you the amount of the defalcation."

"You said it was your business. Well, it's more than $10,000."

Emma was astounded, and her heart sank. She had not imagined that it could be so large a sum.

"Is that the truth?" she asked.

"I ain't never been noted for lying."

"Captain Williams, I've come here to plead with you to save Joe and me and my family from disgrace—to keep him out of jail. You know my father. You were in business with him. You always liked him and knew he was an honest man."

"He was square in his business dealings with me, Mrs. Brooks, but that's not less than every man has got to be who deals with me."

"I know that," she said, her manner becoming supplicating. "I know that, but you must have some respect for his memory; you must have had some affection for him at the time—everybody had—and some pity for me in this trouble. I thought all these things might soften you, might open a way to some arrangement that would save you from the exposure that seems now bound to come tomorrow morning. Isn't there some way out of it?"

But he was all business now. He had satisfied himself that he had wasted his time with her.

"Have you got the money?" he snapped.

"No."

"Then what's your proposition?"

"I have none," she confessed helplessly, hanging her head.

"Humph!" he grunted, settling himself in his chair.

"I thought—I thought you might be a little more charitable and suggest some way," she murmured.

"Your husband sent you here, didn't he?"

"Yes."

"What did he say to you?"

REMOVE BACKBONE IN DELICATE OPERATION

In Hope of Saving Football Player's
Life a Portion of His Vertebrae Is Removed.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 8.—Midshipman Earl D. Wilson, quarterback of the Naval academy football team, who has been lying in a semi-paralyzed state since the injury to his spine in the Villa Nova-Navy game three weeks ago, was operated upon in an endeavor to save his life.

The operation was considered in every way a success and the chances very strongly favor his recovery. It is said.

Wilson, who has retained his mental faculties and been in a cheerful mood all along, was anxious for the operation, although he did not realize the full seriousness of his situation. The operation consumed nearly two hours. It was performed by Surgeons S. P. Stokes, J. H. Ide, E. P. Woods and Assistant Surgeon G. F. Cottle, all of the navy. Dr. Walton Hopkins of Annapolis was present.

The operation consisted in removing parts of the laminae of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth cervical vertebrae and pressure from bone fragments was relieved.

Serious Collision on Pennsylvania

Road Results from Broken Rail.

New York, Nov. 8.—Four persons, all of them railroad employees, were killed and six passengers seriously and a score slightly injured in a collision between Pennsylvania railroad train No. 194, from Philadelphia, and an engine running light on the elevated tracks of the railroad in Jersey City. The engines and all the cars, except the rear one, left the rails, and the smoking car and both engines were overturned.

The wrecked train was running at full speed. Near Brunswick street an engine running light on the adjoining track, in the same direction, and the passenger train crashed together.

An investigation by railroad officials led to the declaration that the accident was probably caused by a broken rail.

The mail car of the wrecked train carried a consignment of gold, said to amount to $1,000,000, from the Philadelphia mint to the New York treasury.

A. F. of L. ANNUAL CONVENTION

Sentences of Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison Will Be Considered.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 8.—The annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened here this morning with a large attendance from the states and the Dominion of Canada. The meeting promises to be one of the most important ever held by the organization.

President Gompers in his address reported on his European trip and recommended some sort of an organic union between the American and European organizations. The question of the full sentences imposed on Gompers, Vice-President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison will come up for consideration. The affirmation of full sentences against the three labor leaders, according to the delegates, has assured Gompers' re-election.

HOLD UP FREIGHT TRAIN; SHOOT BRAVE BRAKEMAN

Two Highwaymen Attempt Rob Produce Cars—Trainman Demands
Their Surrender—Is Shot.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—A. L. Jackson, a brakeman on the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railroad, was shot and dangerously wounded at Round Lake, Wis., by train robbers during an attempt to loot the Chicago butter and egg special at that point.

Passes from Waukegan and Libertyville are scouring the Illinois-Wisconsin border for the highwaymen. They are supposed to be headed toward Chicago.

The robbers cut off the last five cars from the train while it lay on a siding at the lonely station of Round Lake. They ran two fast motor trucks up alongside the cars to carry away their booty.

Just as they were about to break into the cars to unload the butter and eggs and transfer the cargo to their automobile trucks, Jackson, the brakeman, came running from the cab toward the engine. He saw two men at work trying to break open the doors.

With no other weapon than an iron bar he suddenly confronted them and demanded that they surrender. The men dropped their crowbars and responded with a volley of bullets. One shot struck Jackson in the head and he fell unconscious. The robbers jumped into the motor cars and escaped.

KEYNOTE TO TAFT'S MESSAGE

Roosevelt Policies Will Be Carried Out as Promised.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 8.—The keynote of President Taft's message to the coming session of congress will be: "This administration was elected on a platform that we proposed to carry out the policies of Theodore Roosevelt, and we propose to keep that promise." The determination was made known during the day of rest the president enjoyed at Augusta.

President Taft reserves to himself the right to decide what those policies are. He has said in public addresses that he more than any other man, perhaps, has been in position to know just what Roosevelt did or did not believe.

"Mr. Roosevelt's chief policy," he said, "was the determination to make the great corporations of the country obey the law, and the corporations included the railroads and the great industrial corporations that do a large industrial business and that have shown a tendency to monopolize that business and suppress competition."

Mr. Taft will command a court of five members in order that when the interstate commerce commission decides a rate is unreasonable, a reasonable rate may be made at once, with no appeal on the part of the railroads, except the supreme court. This to make the Hepburn rate bill effective. The president will make it clear that he is not attacking corporations that work legitimately.

Severe Accident.—On Saturday afternoon last, Mr. Gilbert Hogan, while out hunting about four miles east of the city, met with a very severe accident. He had in use a double-barreled gun, and having discharged one barrel was in the act of reloading it, when the charge in the other exploded, tearing his right hand in a shocking manner. The charge took effect in the center of the hand, tearing up the bones and flesh and nearly severing the two middle fingers, and at the same time tearing out two tendons running up the arm some nine inches.

It is a terrible ugly wound, and although an effort will be made to save what remains of the hand, it may be found impossible to do so, in which case amputation will become necessary. Mr. Hogan is as comfortable today as any one can be while suffering under such an injury.

Jottings.—The church of the New Jerusalem formed a Sunday School yesterday.

You can afford an Edison Phonograph

The price places it within reach of all. No family is too poor to have an Edison Phonograph. No family is too rich to enjoy it. Nothing that money can buy will furnish a greater range of amusement for every dollar invested.

Mr. Edison intended that his Phonograph should be within reach of everyone. He wishes to see it in every home. Prices range from $12.50 to $125.00. No one can buy a Phonograph cheaper than you can. No one should pay more for it.

The Edison Phonograph in your home would give it something that it now lacks—entertainment of the best sort at a small cost, always available and suited to everyone.

Do not forget these things. Remember that they are found only in the Edison Phonograph, because no other sound-reproducing machine is so perfect and so faultless. None other is made by the inventor of the Phonograph idea as the Edison Phonograph is.

Edison Standard Records • 35c.
